----- A new game book is needed, so we would like to hear your advice. The current one on qqgroup is supported by players that are still playing the game. But it is a waste of time for all of us to play an outdated version of the game. That is why we decided to set up a forum to seek advise from players that have played and played longer with the game. In this latest Beta Patch Notes, we would like to announce that a new report function has been added into the game. Reports can be found after clicking the report button at the bottom of the chat window (in the same location as the report button for CJ). To report player(s) in your division, click the report button, then type in the name of the division you wish to report. Click the OK button. Reporting System: ----- 1) In the chat window, there should be a report button at the bottom of the chat window. 2) Type in the name of the division you wish to report. 3) Click on the OK button. 4) A message should appear stating that the report has been placed. NOTE: Each division's report will appear as a single message in the chat window. C.A. and C.A.1 version of the report system has been added to. 2. Back to Home Screen (BTS) - Will be added to all main screens, especially when returning after making purchases on merchant. 3. BTS Restriction - BTS may be further restricted in certain spaces. Division commanders are notified immediately when BTS is restricted. 4. BTS Control Fee - BTS may be restricted for a period of time to add a very small fee to the cost to operate it (both to fund its maintenance and make it more difficult to obtain than T.N.E.S.U). 5. BTS is Now Available for all Player Groups - Players from all teams can now use the BTS service. The BTS is a special mode that is available only to team divisions. In this mode, players can place T.N.E.S.U. on BTS maps, reserve those maps for a period of time, or even turn off access to the BTS mode. BTS can only be used when it is enabled in your team's settings. 6. BTS Whitelist - Players can now whitelist or blacklist

Features Key:

After several years of research, we have released our new Archaic Age game, The Ark. While we have not yet announced a release date, it will be available on Windows, Linux, Mac, iOS, Android, and Ouya. In The Ark, you will take control of the most powerful state in Greece at the dawn of the classical period. Establish your empire across the Aegean Sea, provide for the development of the prosperous cities of the Greek countryside, and forge the most powerful alliance possible. Only the mightiest states will survive the challenges of this era, and, unlike in our prior games, the setting of The Ark is meticulously historical! We have also prepared three concept videos, all three of which explain in great detail how this version of The Ark will play. We hope they will demonstrate why The Ark is the most significant update to Archaic Age since its original release! "All Work and No Play makes Jack a dull boy." "There are two ways to walk through the world: Build roads or burn them down." "The sooner you compromise, the sooner you can compromise." "You can go back in time. You can't go back and kill Hitler." "Build a better mousetrap and people will beat a path to your door." "Choose your friends wisely, cause friendship isn't free." "One way to view a budget is to think of it as a gasoline gauge. As a country's economy grows, its fuel gauge rises and signals that there is more and more money available for leisure activities. As the gauge reaches full, idling becomes an expensive luxury." "Research alone will not win a war. It is the feedback, the continuous, repeated feedback that converts theory into reality." "Religion can be used to control and manipulate people, but it can never change them. As Shakespeare wrote in Macbeth, "Good friend, but I must contradict. The time has been, that I have ta'en thee nigh thy breaking. But thy recoveries, I thanke them, Are more than I desir'd." "The real truth, of course, is that it's difficult not to be biased when you work in politics or the military. " "Through friendly service, you might be able to influence someone to become a friend." "If you're not ready when the moment comes, you will never be ready." "The future is always changing, and your ideas must keep pace if you expect to achieve your goals." "It will never become cold again as long as people are willing to pay for electricity." "Most people do not have the faith or vision to see an idea through to fruition. They rest content with trying to make excuses or minimize the importance of an issue. " "Before you trust someone, consider their motivations. " "You can't outrun the truth. The truth will find you. " "Fiat justitia, ruat caelum." [Latin for "Let justice be done though the heavens fall."] Brine 2-5 The sun poured into the bay, shining through the thick clouds that covered the sky like a blanket. The sunlight reflected off the smooth, black hull of the Brine in the sil

What's new in SRPG Studio Foreign Land Background:

Officially, the protagonist is AI War/AI War: Beyond the Corporation. 'What do you call a veteran of the Last-Stand anti-totalitarian movement who sells metal services?' Dr. Christopher Cole [Crestantel] always ask. 'A mercenary.' Among the strongest challenges of what Westerners call the War on Terror in the twenty-first century is that you don't have enough 'real' soldiers. It's hard to imagine the American army without the 20,000-or-so veteran 'new' soldiers; but you could cut off their support in a heartbeat. It was never quite clear why this venerable strain of imperialist wars was necessary, but there isn't a good counter to it. As I've mentioned before, it's probably the hardest part for the Democrats in the United States to accept because it's so easy to see the logic of building a boat which barely floats — no doubt that makes the Republicans at least good bargaining chips, whatever their actual policies. In the United States, the naval scenarios are however coming up: no civilian ship exists to allow Obama to pull the muscular not-there navy. There isn't a business like that for these new soldiers, because there really aren't that many ways of profiting from just reaching for a gun. The other is 'Blackwater', the official semi-official private military company, which has come into conflict with Democratic governors in the backlands of Utah, Arizona, Montana, and New Mexico. As always, they talk better than they play. In this case, some suit at the head office says Behind the swirl of corporate intrigue and international intrigue and bureaucratic infighting lies a hard truth: the hiring practices of Blackwater — called "Xe" for short — are relatively easy for any angry young man... Let's back up. First of all, let's give some context to where we are. Right now, in Iraq, we have 15,000 military combat troops [in fact it's 10,000 but never mind]; plus of course, the city police who also have guns. In Afghanistan, we're spending $40 billion or so a year, and there are 550,000 troops we're hoping to get out. So one might think that given all this might, we

To provide a new diplomatic channel between the United States and Iran that can build confidence and establish a more permanent relationship between the two countries, according to the White House. "I'd like to offer a new diplomatic channel, that will be based in Baghdad, that will be based in Baghdad and we will work together," National Security Advisor John Bolton told CBS News' "Face the Nation" on Sunday. Bolton added, "I think it'll do two things, number one, it'll be an opportunity for us to engage with the Iranian government, and to the extent possible, the other elements of the regime that might be interested in relations with the United States." Bolton also said, "the second thing it will do is send a message to the Iranian government that the president of the United States is willing to deal with them," adding, "We're going to deal with them, but we're going to deal with them directly and we're going to be very clear that the current crippling sanctions against them remain in place." President Trump and Iranian President Hassan Rouhani announced on May 8, 2019, that they had reached a nuclear deal. Bolton did not provide further details of the agreement, but said, "It would be very good if there could be a pathway to that in the future." In the current administration, Bolton has a long-standing animosity towards Iran, and has previously tried to increase sanctions on the country. He has said that not only the government itself, but the people that go to Iran will try and undermine American policy. According to Bolton, what President Trump is trying to do is "force this issue out into the open." Bolton said, "But it's not an easy thing to do, since the Islamic Republic of Iran and the regime that's there continue to be a fundamental threat to the peace in the Middle East." Regarding the U.S. policy towards the Middle East, Bolton said, "If the Iranians want to be part of a peaceful
