...CLEVELAND, Ohio -- A 21-year-old woman accused of nearly killing a man with her car late Saturday was charged with aggravated vehicular assault. Cleveland police said a 22-year-old man was on the sidewalk in a parking lot at West 117th and Lorain streets at about 9:10 p.m. Saturday when he was struck by a Ford Fusion moving west on Lorain. The woman ran from her car and continued driving on Lorain, where it struck the man several more times, police said. The man had to be taken to MetroHealth for treatment of his injuries, which were described as "serious but not life-threatening," police said. The woman was arrested nearby. Her name was not released because of her age. Cleveland police spokesman Barry Latz said they don't believe drugs or alcohol were involved in the accident. He said the woman has been involved in other complaints and was ticketed during her time on the street. The accident remains under investigation./cv4ca0fof/dollars-you-dont-know-about-6-of-the-most-popular-stories-in-history ) ~~~ daemonk Cute. But really, the U.S. dollar is heavily over-inflated. It has lost nearly 98% of its value since the early 1900's. Any of these stories could be done in 100% non-monetary trade, or at least transactions done by cheques, with credit cards, online, etc. Also, currencies are constantly changing. ~~~ blazespin Even if this were true, what is the benefit of debasing a currency? Why not just print up a billion more dollars or coins? You're not going to make anything close to a profit trading into a country that has 100% reserves. ~~~ kurthr It makes payments easier. I would hold reserves to avoid going to the Fed for demand financing in an emergency. ~~~ daemonk > I would hold reserves to avoid going to the Fed for demand financing in an > emergency. Not sure why you would think a reserve currency requires demand financing? It is the central bank's mandate to maintain a balance between the Fed's reserves and lending
